I am directed to refer to my letter of even number dated the 30th August, 1947, on the subject of the resumption of publication in the Gazette of summaries of Municipal Estimates, and to your reply thereto. The only ground on which doubt has been expressed is that delay might ensue in translation and consequently in publication of the Arabic and Hebrew editions.

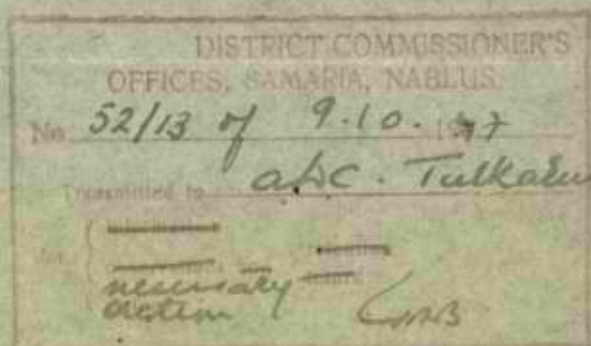

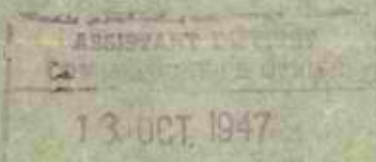

2. It is not now considered that this will cause any serious delay, and I am, therefore, to request you to arrange for publication, in accordance with section 78(2) of the Municipal Corporations Ordinance, of summaries of approved Municipal Estimates in due course.

3. I am to suggest that translations in the appropriate language should be furnished to the Translation Bureaux at the time when the English summaries are sent to the Government Printer, as this will considerably assist their work.

Chief Secretary's Office,

20th January, 1947.

GENERAL CIRCULAR No.9/47.

I am directed to inform you that the Secretary of State has intimated that he desires that Defence Regulations and other emergency powers taken under the Emergency Powers (Defence) Acts 1939-1945 and retained under the Supplies and Services (Transitional Powers) Act 1945, or otherwise should not be retained longer than is absolutely necessary. He has asked that all such powers be kept under regular and careful review with the object of ensuring that none of them is allowed to remain in existence until it automatically expires and that each regulation is revoked as soon as it is no longer essential for the special purposes for which it was retained.

2. I am, therefore, to enclose schedules of those of the Defence Regulations, 1939, and of miscellaneous Defence Regulations which have been kept in force by the Emergency Laws (Continuation of Certain Defence Legislation) Order, 1946, or the Supplies and Services (Transitional Powers) Order, 1946, with the request that you examine those of them which bear upon the work of your department and report not later than the 28th February, 1947, which of them is in your opinion no longer essential.

3. In this connection I am to make it clear that the Defence (Emergency) Regulations, 1945, and any other Defence (Emergency) Regulations do not fall within the scope of the present inquiry since they are made under the Palestine (Defence) Order in Council, 1937, and not under powers conferred by the Acts mentioned in the first paragraph of this circular.

RULES OF transliteration.

His Excellency the High Commissioner has directed that the following notice be published in English in the Palestine Government Gazette.

His Excellency desires that the principles set forth therein for transliterating Arabic into English should as far as is possible be followed in Government and Official correspondence in Palestine. It will be observed that conventional and familiar spellings which have been consecrated by usage, are not affected by these instructions.

The use of the diacritical mark over long vowels (a horizontal bar or a circumflex) is essential, and the dots underneath certain consonants should be employed if this is practicable.

NOTICE REGARDING transliteration IN ENGLISH OF ARABIC NAMES.

The Arabic names in the Administrative Divisions Proclamation, 1940, and other Arabic names in Palestine are transliterated from Arabic into Latin characters in accordance with the principles described below.

These principles are based upon the system known as the R.G.S. II System which has been accepted as authoritative by the Permanent Committee on Geographical Names for British Official Use.

The aim of the system is to ensure that names transliterated in accordance with it, will, as far as possible, be understood by any ordinary educated local inhabitant, to whom they may be read, but the Committee "recognises that in Arabic, the necessity for letter-for-letter transliteration often renders impossible a close approximation to the local pronunciation".

The principal rules of the System are :

- (a) that vowels should be pronounced as in Italian and consonants as in English, and
- (b) that every letter is pronounced and no redundant letters are used.

2. In 1931 the Government of Palestine published a Booklet entitled :

"Transliteration from Arabic and Hebrew into English with transliteration Lists", at the beginning of which there was an instruction that the system formulated therein was to be followed in all official correspondence.

As a result of discussion between the Palestine Government and the Colonial Office, and in order to take recognition of certain spellings which had taken a firm root, it has been found necessary slightly to modify the instructions set forth in that Booklet, which was itself mainly based upon the R.G.S. II System.

The most important amendment required is to ensure that conventional or familiar spellings consecrated by usage could be retained; this actually is in accordance with one of the principles of the R.G.S. System; the remaining modifications are merely to state a preference for one or other of alternatives allowed by the R.G.S. System. The following description of the rules sets forth the system as modified :

3.—(a) The following English Consonants are used with the values they have in English :

b	(representing Arabic ba	ب)
d	(representing Arabic dal	د)
f	(representing Arabic fa	ف)
h	(representing Arabic ha	ه)
j	(representing Arabic jim	ج)
k	(representing Arabic kaf	ك)
l	(representing Arabic lam	ل)
m	(representing Arabic mim	م)
n	(representing Arabic nun	ن)

r	(representing Arabic ra	ر)
s	(representing Arabic sīn	س)
t	(representing Arabic ta	ت)
z	(representing Arabic zai	ز)

(b) The following will be used in the transliteration of the Arabic consonants which have not a counterpart in English :

sh	(as in shop) to represent Arabic shīn	(ش)
th	(as in froth) to represent Arabic tha	(ث)
kh	(as in Scots loch) to represent Arabic kha	(خ)
dh	(like the 'th' in them) to represent Arabic dhāl	(ذ) and dha (ظ)
gh	(guttural) to represent Arabic ghein	(غ)

- (c) h (a pectoral aspirated) to represent ha (ح)
 s to represent Arabic sad (ص)
 d to represent Arabic dad (ض)
 t to represent Arabic ta (ط)

(A dot may be placed under these four letters to distinguish them from the transliteration of the Arabic letters ha, sīn, dāl and ta).

q represents qaf (ق) a guttural k; it differs from the English q in that it is not followed by a u as in queen, quorum, squat.

An inverted comma represents the guttural Arabic 'ein (ع)

(d) The Arabic letters wāu (و) and yā (ي) when consonants are represented by w and y as in Wādī and Yāsīn.

Shadda (ّ) over a letter indicates that it is to be doubled and sukūn (◌ْ) indicates that it has no vowel.

(e) The Vowels and Diphthongs.

The vowels and diphthongs will be rendered as in the following list :—

_____ (fat-ha=a (except in diphthong fat-ha-ya).	_____ kasra=i.
_____ (fat-ha-alif)=ā.	_____ kasra-yā sukūn=ī.
_____ damma=u.	_____ fat-ha-yā sukūn=ei.
_____ damma-wāu=ū.	_____ fat-ha-wāu sukūn=au.

(f) The long sign ā, ū, and ī should always be inserted if there is any chance of confusion as in Rāshid (رَاشِد) and Rashīd (رَشِيد)

(A circumflex will serve the same purpose: Rāshid, Rashīd).

(g) A hyphen should be used when h (ه) or h (ح) is preceded by a, d, t, th, kh, dh, s, sg, gh, or k, as in ad-ham, ash-hab, fat-ha :

(فَتْحَة) (أَشْهَب) (أَذْهَم)

4. The definite article (ال) should preferably be transliterated el although al may also be used. The l must be assimilated before a solar letter and retained before a lunar letter.

The solar letters are :—

ta	ت
tha	ث
dāl	د
dhāl	ذ
ra	ر

The lunar letters are :—

ba	ب
jīm	ج
ha	ح
kha	خ
'ein	ع

solar letters :		lunar letters :
zai	ز	ghein	غ
sin	س	fa	ف
shin	ش	qaf	ق
sad	ص	kaf	ك
dad	ض	mim	م
ta	ط	ha	ه
dha	ظ	wau	و
lam	ل	yā	ي
nun	ن	also alif	أ when carrying the hamza.

Examples : (الشَّيْخُ مُوَنَّسٌ) Esh Sheikh Muwannis, (عَبْدُ الرَّحْمَنِ) 'Abd er Rahman,
 but (دَيْرُ الْبَلَحِ) Deir el Balah.

5. The letters (و) wau and (ي) yā are used both as consonants and as vowels.

(a) Wau (و). If this is a consonant it carries a vowel-mark (fat-ha, kasra, or damma) as in Zawata (زَوَاتَا), Zāwiya (زَاوِيَّة), Wūheib (وَهَيْب), Qawūqa (قَاوُوقَه).

If it is a vowel, it is preceded by damma, and carries no vowel at all, as in Mahmūd (مَحْمُود), if it is preceded by fat-ha, and is carrying a sukūn, it is the diphthong au, as in Jaudat (جَوَدَات), Fauqa (فَوْقَا).

(b) Ya (ي). If a consonant, it carries a vowel-mark, (fat-ha, kasra, damma), as in Yahya (يَحْيَى), Yibna (يَبْنَه).

If it is a vowel, it carries no vowel-mark and is preceded by kasra, and is transliterated as i, as in Yāsīn (يَاسِينَ), Ni'līn (نِيلِينَ).

If it is preceded by fat-ha and is carrying a sukūn, it is the diphthong and should be transliterated as ei, as in Beī (بَيْت), Rujeib (رُجَيْب), Quweiq (قَوْيُق).

(c) The doubling of the consonant yā (ي) preceded by kasra is to be indicated by lengthening the i (e.g. Nāsiriya (نَاصِرِيَّة), but if the doubled yā is preceded by fat-ha, then the first yā is represented by i (without a long sign) as in Turmus 'Aiya (طُرْمُسُ عِيَّ), Taiyiba (طَيِّبَه).

The undotted yā at the end of a word is called the alif maqṣūra, and is transliterated like alif as in Mustafa (مُصْطَفَى), Leila (لَيْلَى).

6. The ta marbūta which is the ending of a class of feminine names, is always preceded by fat-ha, which should preferably be rendered by a, as in mas-ha (مَسْحَة) Manāra (مَنْارَة), Birwa (بَرْوَة), Fārī'a (فَارِيعَة). In colloquial dialects in Palestine, the pronunciation of the fat-ha before the ta marbūta frequently becomes neutral and indeterminate. There is no need, as is sometimes done, to render this by e; for instance (غَابَة) should preferably be ghāba and not ghābe; (جَرِيشَة) should be Jarisha and not Jarishe. The ta marbūta is to be carefully distinguished from a final ه as (عَبْدُ اللَّهِ) 'Abdallah, (طَه) Taha, (نَبِيَه) Nabih.

The "ta marbuta" is pronounced t when it occurs at the end of the first of two words in the "construct state" (as in (غَابَةِ مِسْكَةٍ) Ghābat Miska, (خَرْبَةِ قَاقُونِ) Khirbat Qāqūn).

7. The hamza is not represented in transliteration ٱ fat-ha-hamza-kasra=ai, ٱ fat-ha-alif-hamza-kasra=âi, as in Nâil. In other words, if it is on a sukun, it is omitted in transliteration and if it carries a vowel, only the vowel is transliterated.

It may be carried on an alif as in Amin (أَمِين) and Umm (أُم), on a wau as in Fuad (فُؤَاد), and on a ya as in Nâil (نَائِل).

I am directed to refer to my General Circular no 4 of the 27th November 1945 on the subject of arrears of work connected with the publication of the publication of the Palestine Gazette and to invite your attention to the fourth paragraph thereof in which it was requested that copies of material sent direct to the Gazette Clerk for publication in the Gazette should also be sent at the same time directly to the Chief Arabic Translator and the Chief Hebrew Translation.

General Circular No. 65.

I am directed to refer to my general circular no. 64 on the subject of the delays in publication of the Arabic and Hebrew copies of the Palestine Gazette due to difficulties of translation. In order to minimise these delays as far as possible it is proposed to consider the possibility of reducing the volume of material which is published in the Gazette. Certain notices and advertising matter published hitherto, such as invitations to tender, adjudication of contracts, and postal service announcements are of a non-statutory nature and it has been suggested that their publication in the Gazette could with advantage be discontinued.

2. I am ^{to} invite your comments on this proposal and to request you to specify classes of material of a non-statutory nature which are at present sent by you for publication in the Gazette and to state, ~~xxx~~ in respect of each class, whether or not you consider that publication in the Gazette should be continued.

3. I am also to request you to state whether there are any notices etc. the publication of which in the Gazette is required by law but which in your opinion could, subject to appropriate amendment of the law, be ~~dispensed~~ dispensed with.

General Circular No. 64.

I am directed to inform you that the Central Translation Bureau has heavy arrears of work connected with the Palestine Gazette and that in order to diminish these arrears it is necessary that the Bureau shall be relieved of other work as far as is possible.

2. District Commissioners and Heads of Departments are therefore requested to endeavour to make their own arrangements for all translations required by them except in the case of material which is to appear in the Palestine Gazette. If such arrangements cannot be made, applications for the assistance of the Central Translation Bureau should be sent only through this office. These applications should be addressed directly to the Assistant Secretary (Mr. M. Brown) who has been appointed to coordinate the work of the Central Translation Bureau with that of the Government Printer and should be accompanied by an explanation as to why departmental arrangements for translation cannot be made.

3. I am also to request that you will issue an instruction to your officers that they should not for the present telephone the Central Translation Bureau for advice on translation terminology. I regret that this instruction is necessary as a step towards enabling the Bureau to reduce as speedily as possible the heavy accumulation of arrears of work in the translation of the Gazette.

4. District Commissioners and Heads of Departments are also requested, when they send material direct to the Gazette clerk for publication in the Gazette, to send copies at the same time directly to the Chief Translation and to the Chief Hebrew Translator.

Has anything further happened in this matter ? Surely if the publications mentioned in voucher No. 13097 of 15.7.38 have in fact been dispatched, as it is alleged by the Government Printer, inquiries in the Post Office should elicit their whereabouts.
